DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection as necessitated by applicant's amendments.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ingersoll (US Patent # 5,390,604) in view of Cole (US Patent # H776). Ingersoll discloses a method of determining the time to a desired height of burst of a projectile comprising the steps of determining the time that it takes the projectile to reach its apex after launch and calculating the time to the desired time of burst based upon the time. Wherein the time to the desired time of burst is a percentage of the time that it takes the projectile to reach its apex. Although Ingersoll does not expressly disclose the method including measuring the time that it takes the projectile to reach its apogee after launch, Cole does. Cole teaches a method of measuring the time that it takes a projectile to reach its apogee after launch. Ingersoll and Cole are analogous art because they are from the same field of endeavor: projectile fuzes. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the method of measuring the time that it takes a projectile to reach its apogee after launch as suggested by Cole with the method of determining the time to a desired Height of Burst as suggested by Ingersoll. The suggestion/motivation for doing so would have been to obtain a faster method of determining the time to a desired height of burst.

4. Claims 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ingersoll in view of Cole as applied to claims 7 and 8 above. Ingersoll and Cole disclose the claimed invention except for the specific percentages and the specific height. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize the specific percentages and specific height, since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
